

Artist Statement:

This artwork is about second-generation Asian-Americans drifting farther away from their own culture, caused by attempts to assimilate as Americans and live the American dream that their parents hoped for them. Instead of this, they face chaos, labels, and strange identity crises.

When Trump addressed COVID-19 as the Chinese virus, it may have inspired the weird minority now going on a rampage, harming Asian moms, dads, and grandparents – harming the people most dear to my Asian peers and me.
